A close-up photograph of tree bark, showing a complex, cracked, and textured surface. The bark has a greenish-yellow hue, possibly due to lichen or moss growth. The texture is highly irregular, with many small, interconnected cracks and ridges. The lighting is somewhat uneven, creating highlights and shadows that emphasize the three-dimensional quality of the bark's surface. In the center of the image, the words "BARK" and "ÉCORCE" are printed in a clean, white, sans-serif font, stacked vertically.

ÉCORCE

The image is a complex abstract painting. It features numerous horizontal bands of color, primarily in shades of green, yellow, and blue, with some darker, almost black, spots scattered throughout. The texture is highly varied, with some areas appearing smooth and others very rough and layered. In the lower right quadrant, there is a large, intricate, organic shape that resembles a tree trunk or a large, textured rock formation, rendered in a mix of green and yellow tones. The overall composition is dense and layered, creating a sense of depth and movement.

An aerial photograph of a mangrove forest. The image shows a dense network of water channels and mangrove trees. The water channels are a deep red color, while the mangrove trees are a darker, almost blackish-red. The overall appearance is a complex, textured pattern of red and black. The text "MANGROVE MANGROVE" is overlaid in the center of the image.

A photograph of a sequoia tree trunk, heavily overlaid with a vibrant red color. The image shows the rough, textured bark of the tree. On the left side, there is a dark grid pattern, possibly a window or a screen. The text 'SEQUOIA' is written twice in white, bold, uppercase letters, with a small accent mark over the 'Q' in the second instance.
